Immerse yourself in the grandeur, sights and sounds of the timeless landscapes of the Bundian Way, one of the ancient walking tracks linking the mountains to the coast.

Award winning composer and multimedia artist Damian Barbeler has created an inspiring production featuring instruments as diverse as violin to didgeridoo with landscape imagery and selected excerpts from the book "On Track" narrated by the author John Blay.

This first performance in the south east is fittingly being held in the only town on the ancient pathway—DELEGATE

Natalie's book " Memories of Delegate and Border District" will be launched at the Delegate School of Arts on Saturday the 3rd October at 10am

What's On

From 1 October 2026, businesses will no longer be able to apply surcharges to card payments. This includes Visa, Mastercard, eftpos and American Express transactions.

The new rules only apply to card payment surcharges.

They do not affect:

- weekend surcharges
- public holiday surcharges
- booking fees
- service fees
- other non-card-related charges.

For example, hospitality businesses can still apply weekend or public holiday surcharges where permitted.

Valuation and Rates Notices issued with support available

East Gippsland Shire Council has issued the 2026/27 Valuation and Rate Notices to property owners across the region.

If you have not received your notice by 4 September, please contact Council for a copy.

Council calculates rates using the Capital Improved Value (CIV) of each property. Property valuations are independently assessed by the Valuer General Victoria and help determine how much each property owner pays.

This year, Council has set an average rate increase of 2.5%, which is below the State Government's rate cap of 2.75%. However, individual rates may vary depending on changes to property valuations and other applicable charges.

Mayor Cr Jodie Ashworth acknowledged that any increase in household expenses can be challenging, particularly at a time when many people are experiencing ongoing cost-of-living pressures.

"We understand that receiving a rates notice can be stressful, particularly for households, farmers and businesses managing increased costs across everyday expenses," Mayor Ashworth said.

"Council has worked hard to keep this year's average rate increase below the State Government cap while continuing to deliver the essential services and infrastructure our communities rely on.

Rates are an important contribution that helps us maintain roads, deliver waste services, support our libraries and community facilities, manage open spaces and invest in projects that benefit communities right across East Gippsland."

"Included with the annual Valuation and Rate Notice is a Rates Information Brochure, which explains how rates are calculated, how they support community services, available payment options and answers common questions.

"Transparency is important to us. We want residents to understand what their rates contribute towards and how we are investing in services and infrastructure that make a difference in their communities," Mayor Ashworth said.

Council offers flexible payment options, including quarterly instalments, which are outlined on rate notices.

The first instalment payment must be made by 30 September 2026 for residents choosing this option.

"We know that circumstances can change, and if you're finding it difficult to manage your rates payments, please contact us as early as possible. Our team can work with you to discuss available options and support," Mayor Ashworth said.

Property owners who believe their valuation or classification is incorrect can lodge an objection with the Valuer General Victoria. Valuation objections close 30 October 2026. Farm classification reviews and single farming enterprise exemption applications close 31 December 2026.

To help residents better understand their notice, Council's Rates Team will be visiting towns across East Gippsland from 15 September to 13 October to answer questions and provide face-to-face support.

For more information, replacement notices or assistance, contact Council on (03) 5153 9500 or visit East Gippsland Shire's website.

Industry tour showcases East Gippsland innovation, sustainability and collaboration

Members of the Agriculture Sector Advisory Committee (ASAC) recently participated in an industry tour highlighting the diversity, innovation and resilience of East Gippsland's agricultural sector.

Following the latest ASAC meeting, the tour featured presentations on weed management, biosecurity and the work of the Gippsland Agriculture Group (GAgG), giving members a first-hand look at how local producers and industry organisations are responding to challenges and embracing new opportunities.

ASAC chair, Mayor Cr Jodie Ashworth, said the tour demonstrated the strength of agriculture in the region and the importance of connecting industry leaders with the people and businesses driving innovation on the ground.

"These visits provide valuable insights into the opportunities and challenges facing our agricultural sector and help ensure ASAC remains informed by the lived experiences of local producers and industry organisations," Cr Ashworth said.

The tour commenced at the Gippsland Agricultural Group's Skeene Creek property, where members learnt about the site's role as a demonstration and trial farm.

Discussions focused on:

• Research into African Lovegrass management

• Pasture productivity and sustainable farming practices

• The value of on-farm trials

• Industry collaboration in addressing emerging agricultural challenges.

The group then visited Lilydale Lawns, one of the region's leading turf production businesses for an overview of the large-scale operation, including its advanced harvesting technology and autonomous machinery to improve efficiency and productivity.

The final stop was Hillside Dairy, where members met with owner Rohan and learnt about the business's approach to dairy farming, calf rearing, soil health and pasture management, along with environmental initiatives such as native vegetation restoration.

Feedback from Leecia Angus, Chair of Gippsland Agricultural Group highlighted the value of the tour in fostering stronger connections between committee members, industry stakeholders and local producers.

"It was wonderful to see Lilydale Lawns operating and to hear directly from Rohan at Hillside Dairy about the innovative soil and pasture management practices being trialled to gain a competitive edge.

The tour provided an excellent opportunity to learn more about local agricultural enterprises while building relationships with fellow committee members and council staff in a more informal setting."

East Gippsland Shire Council thanks the businesses and organisations that hosted the tour and shared their knowledge and experience, offering valuable insights that will help inform future discussions and priorities for the region's agricultural sector.

Roadside water tanks transformed into works of art

Several East Gippsland communities have turned roadside emergency static water tanks into vibrant works of community art, with murals now complete at Wairewa, Nowa Nowa, Doctors Flat and Tambo Upper.

The projects have brought together the CFA, local artists and community members to celebrate resilience and recovery, transforming everyday infrastructure into eye-catching public artworks.

Mayor Cr Jodie Ashworth said the murals were a wonderful example of communities turning something practical into something to be proud of.

“These water tanks play a really important role in emergency management, but they’ve also become a canvas for our communities to tell their own stories of resilience and recovery,” Cr Ashworth said.

“It’s fantastic to see local artists and CFA volunteers working side by side with community members who took the time to share their ideas for the designs with the artists. The results speak for themselves – these murals are already becoming a point of pride in each town, with each one reflecting the town’s unique story, its people and its recovery journey.”

Local artist Lee Nickless brought the Doctors Flat tank to life, while Simon White is behind the artworks at Wairewa, Nowa Nowa and Tambo Upper.

Three more tanks are still to be completed with projects planned for Gipsy Point, South Buchan and Benambra.

The tanks above are located at Wairewa Road,Wairewa/Nowa Nowa, Doctors Flat and Wairewa Hall Visited for inspection.

1. Grounds & Fences. The playing area is the private property of Mr Clancy. A small fenced area on the property serves for a garden and agricultural plots. The beds are neat and there are many flowers. Paths are kept free from weeds. In the plots, an experiment with asparagus is to be conducted. The site is quite suitable.

2. Building, Furniture, Records. The brick building is suitable for the small attendance. There is a comfortable fireplace, two large windows & good floor. The walls are of pitch palings, and there is an iron roof. Ventilation and lighting are satisfactory. The room is kept very clean. The floor is regularly swept and washed and the windows cleaned. The O.D. are small and are not screened. The gear for the boys' O.A. has not yet arrived. The school room should at least be lined with pine, and the two O.D. should be screened. Since last visit a table and chair have been purchased at a cost of £4. The desks are in good order. The school records have been carefully kept.

and English in the case of the older pupils. A very satisfactory feature of the headteacher's work is the efforts he has made with parents to encourage pupils to proceed to higher education. It is likely this year that three pupils will attend secondary schools. The teacher is congratulated on the improved educational outlook noticeable in the school district. A new time table has been prepared. It is suited to the needs of the pupils, and adequately provides for the curriculum. The work programme is drawn up as an approved plan, and is complete to date. The internal year has been conducted and recorded in a very satisfactory manner. Individual reports have been issued to parents, and an interesting, complete report has been written on the capabilities of each pupil. Exam. questions were available, and the papers of pupils were marked in a painstaking manner.

4. Instruction. The results obtained at the examinations since the present head teacher took charge are very good. Several pupils have won merit certificates

A good course of physical training is taken. Each pupil should move more smartly and do the movements in unison. Singing is taught as far as possible. The singing voices of the pupils are not trained. The speech of the pupils receive due attention. Phonics is taken each morning, and pupils are encouraged to use accurately their vocal organs. The difficulty still is that pupils do not speak, in some cases, above a whisper. This is due to the secluded life some of them lead. The best teacher is doing his best to remedy the trouble. The morning observational talk is taken regularly. The testing of spelling and the working of mental arithmetic tests are [illegible] each morning for the various forms before the written arithmetics begins. The infant grade receive regular instruction from the head teacher, and already are showing good progress. Pupils work more neatly, and a cleaner and more legible writing hand is being developed. In arithmetic the individual difficulties are attended to. Book work is carefully corrected. Much good drawing
